LOOM PAUL REFUSES.

He Will Not Submit to the Demand of England for a Court of Inquiry—He Proposes New Terms.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—There is no longer any doubt that President Kruger has refused to submit to the demands of Mr. Chamberlain for the appointment of a court of inquiry. He may have done so diplomatically or hedgingly. But that his answer is regarded by the British government as tantamount to positive refusal is now an established fact. The colonial office is normally non-committal, but there are other evidences which amply justify the statement.

The report that President Kruger has proposed new terms is somewhat verified by the guarded comment of the colonial office officials and the irritability displayed there. There is not the slightest doubt that they now believe war is the only way to settle the controversy. They would far rather have had a curt, defiant answer than the temporizing answer which the Boer president has sent. With the former Great Britain would have plain grounds for a quick commencement of hostilities. Under the circumstances, which it is believed now exist, aggressive action needs considerable explanation to justify it in the eyes of the world and the English majority who still declare that war would be an outrage.

However, if Mr. Chamberlain has his way, it is believed President Kruger's counter proposals will meet with scant attention, and unless the Boers completely back down, which is not likely, the crisis will quickly develop into war. It has developed that the war office has been aware of the nature of the Transvaal government's answer for several days, and that it was communicated to the war office. Hence it is probable that Great Britain will delay the denouncement as little as possible.

A high colonial officer expressed to the representative of the Associated Press his disgust at what he termed "Kruger's cupidity and hypocrisy."

He said: "The kind of game which Kruger is playing must be clear to Americans. The protestations of the Boers that they wish to live a quiet agricultural life, may be the tune of some on the veldt but the gang in Pretoria is simply after money. Though President Kruger says many harsh things of the Outlanders, he never hesitated to make money out of them, either by fair or foul means."

"This Transvaal question can not be judged by recent occurrences. You must go back 50 years. It has been hanging fire all that time, and the sooner it is settled now the better."

Though the official did not actually say so, it was clear that he believed war was the only method of settlement. It is learned that the government is somewhat annoyed at the public's slight interest in the Transvaal. The official above quoted said to a newspaper representative: "Dreyfus seems the only thing that our people think about, though England is in a most serious crisis. This indifference is perhaps typical."

THE PORTO RICO STORM.

The Bodies of 2,500 Victims Buried, 1,000 Persons Were Injured and 2,000 People Are Still Ailing.

PONCE, P. R., Aug. 22.—It is now estimated that the bodies of 2,500 victims of the recent hurricane have been buried, that 1,000 persons were injured during the storm, and that 2,000 people are still missing. There are opportunities here now for investors. There is the greatest lack of money for repairing damages, replanting and replenishing stocks.

The alcaldes appointed committees for the distribution of relief stores, etc., but the military authorities objected to it.

Ponce is healthy, though bodies continue to be found in the fields. The authorities have decided to burn the ruins of Yabuco.

To Hold National Convention.

LABORI IN COURT.

Dreyfus' Wounded Attorney Was Seen in a Carriage to the Hall Early Tuesday Morning.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—The second day of the third week of the second trial by court-martial of Capt. Alfred Dreyfus on the charge of treason began at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Gen. Labori was present. He drove to the court in a carriage, and entered the hall at 6:30 o'clock. The audience greeted him by standing up and by a general clapping of hands. Dreyfus walked quite briskly, but holding his left arm close to his side in order not to disturb his wound. He met Gen. Mercier and Gen. Billot in the middle of the courtroom, stopped, saluted and smiled. Labori looked very well. He was given a cushioned arm chair. Madame Labori, looking well, was also in court. Labori was warmly congratulated by friends. Capt. Dreyfus, on entering, smilingly shook hands with Labori.

Col. Jouaust addressed a few words of congratulation to Labori and expressed the profound indignation of the tribunal at the attempt to assassinate the counsel. Labori was much moved and thanked Col. Jouaust in an eloquent speech.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—Gen. Mercier, who was minister of war when Capt. Dreyfus was condemned and who in the present trial is the virtual prosecutor, was called upon Sunday by the correspondent of the Associated Press, who invited him to make a statement of the position of the anti-Dreyfusards. Although unable to receive the correspondent in person, Gen. Mercier sent his oldest son to convey the following expression of his views:

"Gen. Mercier considers it useless to attempt to convert foreign opinion regarding the Dreyfus question, in which, moreover, foreigners have no right to intervene. Foreign people have been misled by their press, which is violently Dreyfusard, for the very reason that a majority of the French newspapers have been bribed by a Jewish syndicate. Gen. Mercier considers anything he might say excepting his position, which is that of a Frenchman, would be a betrayal of the French people, would be a betrayal of the French people, would be a betrayal of the French people."

"This condemnation is only a matter of ten days or a fortnight, for condemned Dreyfus certainly will be. Foreigners will then see that their journals have deceived them, for they will recognize that the mass of the French nation, who will receive the news of the conviction of Dreyfus as joyful tidings, is composed of officials and that the majority of the French applaud the condemnation. It will be because it is just and merited."

The value of his personal property is estimated by her to be about $10,000. At the time of his death he held no real property. The heirs to the estate are Mrs. Ingersoll, the widow, Mrs. Eva R. I. Brown, wife of Walston H. Brown, and Miss Maude Ingersoll.

New Form of Money Order.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The post office department has adopted a new form of domestic money order, which will be introduced gradually after September 4. It is the size of an ordinary bank draft and has two new features—the use of carbon manifolded paper for reproducing the order instead of writing it twice, as at present, and also a receipt. It is expected the fee charged for orders will be materially reduced about January 1.

Will Not Extend Her Possessions.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—Baron von Hye-king, the late German minister at Peking, who has arrived here on leave of absence for a year, has declared in an interview that Russia does not intend to extend her possessions in China. He added that a China-Japan treaty is impossible because of mutual hatred, and declared that Germany's Chinese interests lie in the direction of the Yang-Tse-Kiang.

The Goebel machine has fixed another newspaper at Paducah.
The other one didn't stay fixed any longer than $750 would go toward relieving the pay-roll.—Louisville Dispatch.

You seem to know how it's done.
Well we have always heard that it takes a knave to catch a knave.
While you are turning state's evidence you might tell the people how much it cost the L. and N. to fix you and how far the sum went toward relieving perplexities, etc.
—[Jackson Hustler.

Mr. Goebel in his speech at Har-rodsburg on Monday last charged that John Young Brown had used efforts to become the nominee of the Louisville convention. He referred to a statement in the Times on the same date as that on which Goebel was nominated, in which attention was called to the possibility of the convention refusing to adopt a dropping resolution. The article stated that John Young Brown's name was being heard as a dark horse candidate for Governor before the convention, that many believed Mr. Goebel would, in an extremity, throw his strength to Brown, and that many delegates from Western Kentucky stood ready to vote for Brown as a compromise candidate for the nomination.

Mr. Goebel, in his speech at Har-rodsburg, declared that the publication in The Times was brought about by a request from Brown to Mr. W. N. Haldeman, conveyed through Mr. C. C. McChord.

Goebel's Charge.

"Now, mark what I say," said Senator Goebel after reading The Times article. "I charge that publication was procured to be published by John Young Brown. I charge that he sent a messenger to the President of the Courier-Journal Company and asked that the publication be made in order to bring about his own nomination. I'll give the name of that messenger.
He is C. C. McChord, the Democratic nominee for Railroad Commissioner in this district. He is the personal friend of John Young Brown, and to him Brown gave the office of member of the Railroad Commission during his term as Governor. And he appointed Senator McChord's brother, W. C. Mc-Chord, chairman of the commission to revise the statutes.

"Let me repeat. I charge that on the day the Louisville convention made its nomination for Governor, almost a week after everything had been accomplished that is now complained of by John Young Brown, this same John Young Brown procured the publication of this article in his effort to bring about his own nomination.
And I want to know, if that convention could nominate John Young Brown, why couldn't it nominate me? Does he mean that he was the only man in the Commonwealth fit to be the Democratic nominee for the high position of Governor?

This state of fact shows that not only John Young Brown, but all others whose names were mentioned in that convention were willing to accept and eager to get the nomination. And it seems to me that this should stop all the complaint about the proceedings at Louisville.
W. N. Haldeman, President of the Courier-Journal Company, was the man to whom John Young Brown sent to procure the nomination.
What were their relations, that John Young Brown should send to him for that publication?"

Land, Stock, Crop

66c; 1896 46c.

Ohio, for October delivery 26 head

If young trees are planted this fall the proper method is to dig out a space for the roots that will allow sufficient room for spreading. Do not apply manure to the roots, but use rich top soil. If fertilizer is used let it be bone meal. In the spring give a liberal application of wood ashes.

Hodgkin Bros., bought the past week 193 hogs, wt. 165 lbs. at $3.80.

Hodgkin Bros., shipped this week
220 sheep and lambs. The sheep cost 2 1/2 to 3 1/4 cts. and the lambs 4 to 5 cts.

Hodgkin Bros., shipped this week
a lot of 750 lb. heifers, bought of Dan West, of Montgomery county,

following export cattle: Of Junius
B. Clay 50 head; of Mrs. Julia Goff 54; of Lewis Rogers 32. They averaged about 1,400 pounds and the price 4 1/2 and 5c.—[Paris News.

John M. Parks shipped 55 head of export cattle which averaged 1, 394 lbs. at 5c per pounds. W. F.
Park shipped at same time 43 head which averaged 1,340 pounds, at about same price.—[Richmond Register.

W. B. Kidd has bought of Pres
Walker 21 export cattle, September delivery, at 5 cents. On yesterday
W. B. Kidd shipped 120 1,325 pound cattle to New York for export. They were bought from Walter Sharp and Omer and Wm.
Ratiff at 5c.—[Mt. Sterling Advocate.

The majority of our correspondents in Montana, Wyoming, Idaho and the Dakotas report that sheep shipments will be smaller this season than last, though in occasional instances the contrary is true. The lamb crop fell short of last year from 20 to 35 per cent.—Live Stock Report.

The Evening Post is published to sell, and it is for sale to all on equal terms.—Louisville Post.

Honest confession is good for the soul. But tell us how much the L.
& N. paid when it bought you the time you bolted Hardin and supported Bradley; how much it paid you the time you bolted Bryan and supported McKinley; and how much it is now paying you for fighting the Democratic ticket and supporting the bolter, John Young Brown? Say, eh!—[Jackson Hust-ler.

There are some cases of fever in town, and to prevent an epidemic, the trustees should make an order to clean the streets and that all the citizens of the town clean up their premises. They should first begin in the rear of the buildings in which our office is located. It seems to us that Marshal should attend to this without so many orders being made.

REPUBLICAN RALLY.—The opening of the Republican campaign took place at London, on the Fair grounds Tuesday last. Special trains brought in 700 or 800 people from various portions of the State. It is estimated that from 4,500 to 5,000 people were on the grounds. Clifton P. Platt introduced by Congressman Boring, made the opening speech followed by Caleb Powers, Judge Morrow, W. S. Taylor and John M. Marshall. It was Republican day. Everything went their way. There was barrels of oratory and eloquence on tap and it was tapped with vigor, vim and vengeance. In fact the speakers just wore poor old Democracy into a frazzle too small to make shoe strings of—at least they (the speakers) seemed to think so. There was some good speaking and some not so good. General Taylor's two hours attempt to flatter Goebel proved that he was not an orator. Marshal was the best speaker of the candidates, though it seemed that he, like some of the other speakers, was rather careless about the truthfulness of some of his statements in regard to the Democratic nominee and the Goebel law. A few of the Clay county feudists were present but didn't mix with each other. The Griffins took a position at the east end of grand stand and remained there most of the day. The Philpots didn't bother around that vicinity. There was a grand scramble when dinner was announced. Many were trampled upon, and it's a wonder no limbs were broken. Prof. Chiesman's London Band furnished the music. The Professor won't allow any other kind of music to be made, but good, by his boys. We saw but one man on the grounds wearing a Brown button, and he was a drummer living in Knoxville, Tenn.

Teachers' Institute.

The Rockcastle County Teachers' Institute convened Monday, Aug. 14, 1899. House was called to order by Supt. Davis. After singing the Institute was led in prayer by Rev. J. C. Canical. Supt. Davis then delivered a short address on what he thought to be the duty of each and every member of the Institute in order to make it a success.

The following officers were then elected and committees appointed: Supt. Davis, Chairman; S. H. Martin, Vice-Chairman; E. S. Albright, Sec'y; and Miss Matilda Jones, Assistant Sec'y.

Committee on Resolutions.—Miss Ella Joplin; Miss Mollie Brown. Dr. J. W. Childress, S. N. Davis

Committee on Program.—Prof. Jones, F. S. Phillips, Miss Ellen Butner and D. R. Gentry.

Committee on Music.—Miss Alza Brown, Miss Berda Martin, Miss Ellen Butner, S. N. Davis and W. T. Gibbs.

The first day was consumed by Prof. Jones in discussing the subject of Psychology. In the limited amount of time which he had to discuss this very important study, there were many very valuable lessons placed before the teachers, and it is especially requested of the teachers of Rockcastle that they put them into practical use.

The rest of the week, with the exception of one-half day which was devoted to the organization of a County Teachers' Association, was consumed in discussing the eleven different common school branches including theory and practice.

Words of commendation for Prof. Jones for the admirable way in which he presented these studies have never been found wanting from a single teacher or visitor who attended the exercises regularly.

We also desire to express to Miss Ellison, of the Williamsburg Institute and Prof. Marsh, of Berea College, our appreciation for the many valuable suggestions which they offered and the unceasing interest which was manifested by them at all times.

One of the most valuable steps taken by the teachers' during the Institute, was the organization of a County Teachers' Association. This is something the teachers of the county have long been needing and now as the move has been made toward the accomplishment of same, it is to be hoped that there are enough good, honest, sincere teachers who are really interested, to keep the ball rolling.

The teachers expressed both by act and deed their high appreciation of the great amount of interest manifested in them by our most worthy Superintendent Davis for the beautiful book-case and the nice collection of books which he has secured. The Superintendent has the duties of the office at heart, and all that is necessary for him, to raise the educational interest of Rockcastle above the plane, to which it has never obtained, is the hearty co-operation of the teachers and patrons.

The following are the resolutions reported by the Committee:

I We recognize the County Teachers' Institute as a valuable educational factor.

II We extend our thanks to our Instructor Prof. Jones, for his patient and pains-taking efforts in our behalf during the week.

III We desire to thank our Superintendent for his steady and efficient services as County Superintendent.

IV We wish to thank all of the other officers of the Institute for the willingness and promptness in discharging their duty.

V Whereas, there has been called from our midst, our brother teacher and ex-County Superintendent of Schools, Andrew Baker; by the death of whom, the educational interest of this county lost a bright light and the teachers a valuable and true friend. We herein extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

VI Whereas, our rank has suffered a loss by the death of W. C. Hundley. We hereby extend our sympathy to the family of the deceased.

VII Resolved, that this institute request the Mt. VERNON SIGNAL and the Colonel to publish in full, the proceedings of this Institute.

After the reading and adoption of the resolutions, the Institute arose and sang two stanzas of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." House adjourned sine die. E. S. ALBRIGHT, Secretary.

SUNKHAZER FLIES OF MAINE.

Worse Than Jersey Mosquitoes and Kissing Bugs Have No Chance with Them.

Since reading in the newspapers of the kissing bug and its doing all the people in rural Maine have taken to capturing specimens to town for examination by newspaper men and naturalists. Countless are the kinds of bugs that have been taken to Bangor in bottles, boxes and preserve jars, and the captors all seem to be sorely disappointed when told that instead of the genuine kissing bug they have a moth killer, a lace-winged fly, or something quite common and harmless.

A man came from Vezie to Bangor the other day with a ferocious-looking bug corked up in a preserve jar and claimed the credit of having captured the first kissing bug in that part of the country. It was not the famous kissing bug that he had, but a native bug somewhat resembling a small lobster with wings.

"I don't care a hang," declared the Vezie man, when told that he must try again. "These fellows kin lick the stuffa out of you, and that's what one of your common bugs kin do."

Not many people living far away from Bangor know what a "Sunkhazer" is like. It is a ferocious fly that infests the flats and meadows about Sunkhaze deadwater, a place in the Penobscot river where the water is slack and where millions of logs are rafted. The Sunkhazers are the pest of the loggers, upon whom they feast to their heart's content, and nothing can drive them away. They are four times the size of the famed mosquitoes of Jersey, and any Maine man will back one of them against a dozen kissing bugs in a fair stand-up fight.

Mr. Bryan first reviewed the record of the republican party, accusing it of putting the dollar above the man. He then took up the silver question, saying prosperity did not set in until six months after the election, when the Klondike gold mines began to be heard from.

"The republicans who claim that times are better because the balance of trade is in favor of the United States," he said, "give away their own position and admit the democratic view of the quantitative character of money is correct. The financiers of England control the English government, through England the rest of Europe, and through Europe the United States."

"The 6,000,000 democratic voters of the party in 1896 were for silver. The 7,000,000 republican voters were for a gold coin, which called for international bimetallicism. Only the Palmer and Buckner voters were for the gold standard—less than one per cent.—yet now the republican platform goes a step farther and demands for gold alone. Moreover, the republicans threaten to retire the greenbacks, though they have never been before the people on that issue."

The speaker next went after the trusts. The money trust, he said, is the biggest trust of all. He was glad the traveling men were fighting the industrial trusts now, but sorry they had not seen the logic of events in 1896 and helped to fight the money trust then.

"The men who make trust speeches and expound them," he asserted, "are bankers. A new danger of the trusts has just been developed. When a trust gets control of all the factories in a given line and the hands in one factory strike the trust will close down the establishment and make its goods at the others. When the workmen at that place are starved to the point of working for any wages offered that factory will be reopened and a lookout to reduce wages will be inaugurated at another factory."

Mr. Bryan closed by a lengthy discussion of imperialism.

"The difference," he said, "between a republic and an empire is this: A republic needs an army of 25,000 for 75,000,000 people. An empire needs four times that large an army, when 100,000,000 population is added. This suits the young men who get fat jobs in the army, but not the people who pay the $1,000 a year needed to maintain each soldier in the Philippines."

Mr. Bryan gave figures to show that England and other nations do not colonize rapidly, and added:

"With 20 people to the square mile in America and 60 to the mile in the Philippines, there is no opportunity there. Even if we succeed in killing off all the natives you cannot get young Americans to go there. They prefer to live in Iowa and Nebraska. The profit will not equal the cost and the profit will not go to the right people, but to investment syndicates. Even if any man is willing to trade for potatoes and does not have a taste for birthright he had better investigate the potatoe."

As the Tagals are largely Christians and our native allies are largely Mohammedans we ought to ask the sultan to help us to subdue the Christian insurgents.

"This government ought to make a declaration of good intentions toward the Philippines as it did toward Cuba. The president ought to have done so, or if he did not have the power should have asked congress for it. Now he might call a special session to ask for the power. Cleveland called a special session to repeal the Sherman act, and McKinley called one. A special session now would cost much money, but not nearly so much as the continuance of the war."

The republican party has the attorney-general and all the machinery for enforcing the existing anti-trust laws. If these laws are insufficient that party has the president and both houses of the next congress and it can enact all necessary laws for their suppression or control. The last congress was also republican, and nothing was done. If, as Attorney-General Griggs contends, congress has no power to pass an effective anti-trust law, there remains the remedy pointed out by Mr. Javayer—namely, tear down the tariff wall and let the outside world enter into competition with the trusts.—Baltimore Sun.

A true American revolts at the idea of a ruling subject race, for the instinct of freedom tells him that, whether right or not, it is deteriorating. We see now that "benevolent assimilation" means iron rules, and we are afraid of it, for we know that enslaving a nation is as dangerous as enslaving an individual. But how can we avoid establishing virtual slavery in our conquered islands? The more we look at this wretched Philippine business the worse it seems.—Hartford Times.

Mr. McKinley will be quite ready to refer the Philippine problem to congress when it meets, although he did not consult that body with reference to his war of conquest. It is a peculiarity of this administration that it is only willing to take congress into its confidence after it has mixed things so that it can't straighten them out.—Columbus Press-Post.

Thirty years ago the arduous and young herring in Canadian waters were sold mostly as fertilizers. In 1897 nearly 1,000,000 boxes of sardines in oil were put on the market. The price paid to fishermen varies extraordinarily, according to catch, season and year, being sometimes as low as six dollars per hoghead and sometimes as high as $100.

There is much French and Belgian capital invested in the principal railway lines of Spain, while England owns many of the shorter lines, and is also at the head of the mining interests.

THE ISSUES OF 1896.

W. J. Bryan Says the Chicago Platform Will Stand.

The Silver Champion Addresses the Democrats of Iowa at Des Moines—Republicans Arraigned.

William J. Bryan was in great demand at the state democratic convention, Des Moines, on the 16th. He spoke to an audience of 6,000 persons in the Auditorium, and then delivered a second address to 4,000 more in the tubercule. His remarks were thoroughly in line with his earlier declarations and with the position taken by the state central committee and the party managers, who are anxious to reunite the party if possible by throwing overboard sixteen to one.

Mr. Bryan first reviewed the record of the republican party, accusing it of putting the dollar above the man. He then took up the silver question, saying prosperity did not set in until six months after the election, when the Klondike gold mines began to be heard from.

"The republicans who claim that times are better because the balance of trade is in favor of the United States," he said, "give away their own position and admit the democratic view of the quantitative character of money is correct. If these laws are insufficient that party has the president and both houses of the next congress and it can enact all necessary laws for their suppression or control. The last congress was also republican, and nothing was done. If, as Attorney-General Griggs contends, congress has no power to pass an effective anti-trust law, there remains the remedy pointed out by Mr. Javayer—namely, tear down the tariff wall and let the outside world enter into competition with the trusts.—Baltimore Sun.

A true American revolts at the idea of a ruling subject race, for the instinct of freedom tells him that, whether right or not, it is deteriorating. We see now that "benevolent assimilation" means iron rules, and we are afraid of it, for we know that enslaving a nation is as dangerous as enslaving an individual. But how can we avoid establishing virtual slavery in our conquered islands? The more we look at this wretched Philippine business the worse it seems.—Hartford Times.

Mr. McKinley will be quite ready to refer the Philippine problem to congress when it meets, although he did not consult that body with reference to his war of conquest. It is a peculiarity of this administration that it is only willing to take congress into its confidence after it has mixed things so that it can't straighten them out.—Columbus Press-Post.

Thirty years ago the arduous and young herring in Canadian waters were sold mostly as fertilizers. In 1897 nearly 1,000,000 boxes of sardines in oil were put on the market. The price paid to fishermen varies extraordinarily, according to catch, season and year, being sometimes as low as six dollars per hoghead and sometimes as high as $100.

Artists' Conceptions of the Noble Steed of the Present Are Not Always Natural.

The artists' horse of to-day is an altogether different creature from the artists' horse of a century ago. In years gone by his neck was arched, his rump well rounded and his whole bearing pompous and melodramatic. Frequently in the good old days he raised one foreleg like a setter dog or reared on both hind legs after the fashion of a grizzly bear. But things have changed now, and the pictorial, or marble, steed has altered his quondam poses for brisker and more businesslike attitudes. While the modern metamorphosis may lack the heroic features which formerly characterized our good old friend, we believe the artistic horse of the present day is much more accurate. They say the change is due almost entirely to the revelations of the instantaneous camera. This infallible portrait maker has caught the steed in action and shown us exactly how he looks. It has always shown us that when he runs he doubles up like a jackknife and throws grace to the winds. It has likewise demonstrated the fact that old-time artists had erroneous ideas as to how the brute handled his feet and used his legs. Indeed, photography has shown us so many things about moving horses that strict accuracy in their portraiture is almost ridiculous.

SAVING SILVER AT THE MINT.

Iron Tools Eaten Away by Acid to Preserve Their Precious Content.

Perhaps the most interesting scheme for the recovery of waste silver at the mint is that applied to the utensils of the melting gang, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The big iron stirring rods, the dip-pers, the strainers and the ladles that come in contact with the molten metal are laid aside at intervals and sent downstairs. They are covered with what looks like brown rust, but is really oxidized silver.

Suppose, to digress a moment, one desired to get a coat of paint off the outside of a house. In such an event the plan of scraping away the house and leaving the shell of paint standing would be regarded as somewhat eccentric, yet that is substantially the method adopted at the mint.

The ladlements are placed in bales of sulphuric acid, which attacks the iron or steel, but leaves the silver untouched.

They are very curious, these fragile casts. Their surface is a sort of natural filigree, honeycombed with innumerable fantastic perforations. The reproduction of a bolt or screw is often-times as perfect as an electrotyp, but they are hurried remorselessly back to the crucible and thus pursue their cycle until at last they find their Karma in a melted coil.

Om Paul's Modesty.

President Kruger recently refused an interview to a celebrated Englishman, who thereupon sent back word that he must see him, that he was no ordinary person, that, in fact, he was a member of the house of lords. The servant went away and returned with the message: "The president says he cannot see you, and adds that he is a cattle herder."

BARGAINS IN TOMBSTONES.

Advanced Methods in the Funeral Business Adopted Near a City Cemetery.

The approaches to all the cemeteries about New York are lined with stone-yards, where headpieces may be had on short notice and in a great variety of styles to suit the varying tastes and degrees of grief or sentiment on the part of the survivors. Tombstones are such cumbersome and heavy ware that they are displayed at the very gates of the graveyards for convenience in making prompt deliveries. The demand for them is reasonably steady, and it would not strike the casual observer that there was much stimulation to an eager competition in the business of supplying them.

It is more surprising, therefore, says the New York Sun, to come across a job lot of headstones at bargain prices. Out in an eastern suburb of the city on Long Island a wheeling tourist came upon an odd spectacle of a marked-down sale of tombstones the other day. All goods were marked in plain figures in the regular and much approved manner of the great department stores. The prices were attractive and the manner of their exhibition was enough to tempt one to lay in a supply against the time when in the course of nature he might need something in this line.

Littered in white paint were all styles, shapes and sizes in granite monuments—plain, polished and ornate. "This style, $20;" "Very fine at $48;" "A beauty, only $14.50;" and "Reduced to $30," were some of the legends. The stonecutter stood, like a floorwalker, among his wares, wearing an inviting smile, while a rival dealer across the way looked on with scorn all over his grimy face at the advanced business methods of his neighbor.

WANTED ST. PAUL'S ADDRESS.

A Turkish Censor Who Was After the Author of Epistles to the Galatians.

The Athens Aity reports that a Greek benevolent society in the Turkish capital recently issued a printed appeal for some special charitable object. The appeal contained a citation from one of the epistles of St. Paul to the Galatians. Two days after the publication of the circular a commissary of police from the censor's department called upon the printer and demanded the address of St. Paul, who was to be charged with the public utterance of seditious and politically provocative language.

The printer at first was inclined to laugh outright at the absurdity of the request and indolence, but as it is always a little risky to venture upon a pleasantly with a Turkish official he sedately replied that St. Paul, the author of the objectionable citation, had been dead for more than 18 centuries. This ruffled the gravity of the police commissary, who angrily exclaimed: "How dare you attempt such impudent jests with me?" and forthwith arrested the printer. Extraordinary as it may appear, the reiteration of the same simple explanation to the censor had an equally exasperating effect on that intelligent official, and the unfortunate typographer was looked up for his "perverse contumacy." It was only after the lapse of three days and on the urgent intervention of the Greek patriarch that the printer was released.

RATHER EMBARRASSING.

How a Philadelphia Boy's Impromptu Amen Caused a Sensation in Court.

Attorney John A. Ward, one of the popular members of the Philadelphia bar, says the inquirer, of that city, recalls at times an incident in one of the courts which happened shortly after he had been admitted to practice law, and which he tells with sincerely the shadow of a smile. It was when court was just opening for the morning session that a boy, sitting by his side, heard the usual prayer made by the clerk. The lad seemed surprised, until, as the last words were uttered by the official, Ward, without a thought as to the result, punched the boy in the side with his elbow and told him to say Amen. Quick as a flash came the response from the boy in a tone of voice that at first startled lawyers and spectators and disturbed the equilibrium of the presiding judge.

When the instant of astonishment had passed men and women who were present laughed lightly as all eyes were directed toward the lad and Ward. "I was too confused to do anything," says the latter, "except to look in my direction but at the youth, who seemed to be appealing to me to know why everybody was looking at us. I still say 'amen' myself when prayer requires it, but I have never told anyone else to do so since the occurrence in court, and I never will."

Lived Without a Stomach.

"Some time ago," says the Scientific American, "we described the remarkable operation of Doctor Schottler, in which he extirpated the stomach of a female patient. It is interesting to know that she lived 14 months after the operation, and that there was no difficulty in keeping up the nutrition of the patient. The food taken passed directly from the esophagus to the intestines, and the intestinal digestion was sufficient to satisfy her wants. This was shown by the long continuance of her life after the operation."

CHRONIC WEATHER KICKERS.

The Luncheon Philosopher Gives His Views on Mankind in General.

"D'je ever notice," said the luncheon philosopher, "what a never-contented lot of pinheads we are? Now, it seems no time at all since I was a-rarin' around and kicking like blazes because the leaves and crocuses didn't appear on schedule time. I believe I blamed my wife for it. I was so dead sick and tired of chilly blazes and my olive green top-coat that I sort of held her personally responsible for the backwardness of the blues and daisies and pansies. I told her that I wanted red-hot, sizzling weather, and lots of it—that for all I cared a ding the sun could go on sizzling forever. Now I find that I'm sick of the summer. I find myself longing to hear the leaves swirling in the ditches and to have the fire lighted in the latrine. I find that I want to take brisk walks in the sharp, chilly air. I find that I'm hungry for buckwheat cakes and sausage. I'm tired of beer. I'm weary of car riding out in the country. Durn it all—I want now three feet high, blizzards of it and I want the theaters and the hot Scotchies! And along toward the end of next February I'll be chewing the rag, in the same old way, about moving to some tropical country where I can get warmed up and be fanned by balmy zephyrs, and all that kind of bleat. We don't know what we want. We even get sick of seasons that we long for, much as kids get sick of their painted Noah's arks or tin soldiers."—Washington Post.
